

CORRESPONDENTS HERALD AND NEW 1895

(By T. E. Wicker.)

This picture was taken from the front porch of Col. Aull's residence, in 1895—20 years ago—and represents the correspondents of The Herald and News during the '90s. This picture was taken just after a big turkey dinner provided by Col. and Mrs. Aull for the pencil pushers and a few other invited guests. Events of far more importance than this dinner have grown dim in the mists of the passing years, but this splendid occasion is happily remembered by all of the old correspondents of that day.

Of this number, all are living except Mr. J. Perry Cook and Miss Hallie Hawkins, who later was married to Mr. J. Webb White.

Mr. Wilson first wrote for the Prosperity Press and Reporter in 1886 and later wrote for The Herald and News continuously for about 15 years. Mr. J. Perry Cook, who resided at that time in the Joannstone school community, wrote news items from that community for several years. Mr. Cook died a few years ago at his home in Newberry. Mr. Wicker wrote his first news items from St. Phillips about 1892 and continued writing for The Herald and News for about six years.

Mr. Wade Harmon, who lived in the vicinity of Cook's Mill, wrote items from that community about 1895. Mr. A. H. Kohn was the Prosperity correspondent for The Herald and News for many years. A memorable con-trovercy (friendly) arose between "Kay" and "Chips" when "Chips" wrote something about the "seven wonders of the world." "Kay" seized the opportunity to hold up "Chips" to ridicule. "Chips" saw his error, but made up his mind to stick to his first assertion and proceeded to invent seven wonders of the Bible.

Mr. Henry Kinard, who writes from Excelsior, has written news notes for The Herald and News for nearly a quarter of a century. He is a good community correspondent and sticks to the job.

Mrs. S. A. Jeter, who wrote for several years from Long Lane, was, before her marriage Miss Annie Coffield. She was educated at Due West and began teaching school in 1885 and in 1890 took a normal training course for teaching at Winthrop and obtained her diploma from the hand of Senator B. R. Tillman. Mrs. Jeter has been a constant reader of The Herald and News since 1892. In a letter to the reporter Mrs. Jeter "recalls with pleasure a banquet to which Editor Aull once invited his correspondents." And she adds: "Like the other correspondents, I have sympathized with The Herald and News in all of its struggles and hope that it may live many years to brighten homes and mold public opinion."

Miss Hallie Hawkins, who wrote from Beth Eden, began writing community items for The Herald and News when she was a child and required the assistance of her father, Mr. L. A. Hawkins, widely known as "Blind Hawkins." Miss Hawkins received her education at Winthrop and was married to Mr. J. Webb White in the late '90s. She continued to write for The Herald and News until she and her husband left the county to live at Spencer, N. C., where Mrs. White died in 1908.

He's an unusual man.
In what way?
I asked him how the European war is coming out and he said he hadn't the slightest idea.

What a mother lacks in skill she makes up in enthusiasm when she attempts to clip her boy's hair.

Many a man has discovered after mixing politics and business that he has poor politics and no business.

A ragtime philosopher says it is an easy matter to tell what kind of wheels a man has in his head by the spokes that comes out of his mouth.—Chicago News.
